I'm a frontend developer passionate about crafting engaging user experiences. I excel in translating designs into functional, responsive web applications using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. My strength is building clean, performant code that prioritizes user accessibility. I'm a quick learner, adaptable to new technologies, and dedicated to delivering seamless, intuitive interfaces. I thrive in collaborative environments and am committed to bringing creative solutions to every project.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Freelance

Frontend Developer

For freelance projects, I've honed my skills in HTML, CSS, Tailwind, and React. I tackled diverse projects, from static landing pages to interactive applications with API integrations. Challenges included achieving pixel-perfect designs and optimizing for responsiveness. I consistently met project requirements, focusing on clean code and user experience. This experience sharpened my ability to translate designs into functional, high-quality frontends.
